C 1 CANADA WEST: Provincial Secretary's Office, Numbered Correspondence Files, 1821-1867

Originals, 1821-1867. [49 m.] Finding Aid 995.

At the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1841, the division of responsibilities between the offices of Civil Secretary and of Provincial Secretary and Registrar was clarified, confirming an evolutionary trend. Where the Civil Secretary had been the principal channel of communication for the government before the Union, after 1841 the Provincial Secretary's office was the focus. This evolution in the bureaucracy paralleled and reflected the development of responsible government in the political arena.

While the office of Civil Secretary to the Governor was unified after 1841, that of the Provincial Secretary and Registrar continued a separation based on geography. The old territory of Lower Canada was now termed Canada East and the old Upper Canada, Canada West. Parallel record-keeping systems were established by the Provincial Secretaries, using a numbered file registry system.

Microfilming of the Registers and Indexes within this series was completed in 1975. The microfilming of the files begun in 1977 was suspended in 1980 pending resolution of problems with misplaced files, then resumed in 1991.

Researchers must use the microfilm, when available. The complete series is being withdrawn from circulation as a protective conservation measure. Photocopying is permitted only from the microfilm. Certification of copies for legal purposes can be provided at the National Archives of Canada. When requesting photocopies, researchers should use the short form of citation illustrated below.

Letters, petitions, reports, returns and other documents received in the office of the Provincial Secretary and Registrar for Canada West between 1841 and 1867 were entered in a numbered registry system. Certain files antedating 1841 were brought forward for reference purposes and entered in the registry system. Not all documents which were entered in the registry system have survived in their expected locations. Many files were brought forward and preserved with related files of later date. As the main channel of corres-pondence for the government, the Provincial Secretary redirected many documents to the appropriate offices for action, where the files were incorporated into other registry systems.

How to locate files using the contemporary Registers and Indexes in RG 5, C 1 (volumes 881-930) and related series

The contemporary Registers and Indexes in series C 1 serve to identify the files. They must be used in conjunction with the Shelf List in order to locate specific files. Except for those serving the pre-1841 "reference" files, each Register is paired with an Index. There is no cumulative index covering the whole period 1841-1867.

Subject entries were not made consistently according to the activity involved or the object of that activity. Thus, references to the dissolution of Parliament may be under D or P. There are peculiarities in entries relating to place names as well: Petitions from "the Inhabitants of This Township" should be found indexed under the initial letter of the municipality's name. Correspondence from specific officials may be indexed by their titles, by generic terms such as Sheriff, or by the geographic jurisdiction (township, county, district).

The Index was compiled concurrently with the Register, so the sequence of entries within major divisions is chronological, not alphabetical. The entry for Mr. Tench would follow that for Mr. Thomas when the letters arrived in that sequence.

General principles for searches:

- When searching for several files relating to a particular case or individual, it is best to begin with the file of most recent date. The bringing forward of files was not consistently recorded in the Registers. By working backward, one may rapidly find all the files on the case together and reduce or eliminate the need to search further.
- When a file appears not to have survived, substantial information about the case may still be available in other sources. Chief amongst these are the letters sent to the author of the incoming letter and to officials involved in a case. Their texts are recorded in the letterbooks (series C 2).
- Files referred to other officials should be sought in the appropriate Record Group. Thus, the remark "Refd Ex Cl 4 June" in 1861 would lead to the Submissions to the Executive Council (RG 1, E 7) and the corresponding Minutes (RG 1, E 1). Where there is a note in theh style "Rept from Ex Cl 8 June", it should be presumed that the file was returned to the PSO and will be in its proper numeric order.

Where the Remarks/Action column contains an extensive note on the history of a file and its peregrinations through government offices, researchers may find it beneficial to obtain a reader-printer copy of the Register entry. Abbreviations which seem puzzling at first glance should become clear as the investigation progresses through related series of records.

- In preparation for microfilming, an identifier sheet was inserted to mark the absence of any file. These sheets note whether files were brought forward, transferred to other offices, or "not found". Some of the files "not found" before 1980 were subsequently located in the B series of RG 5. Where such files were filmed as a supplementary sequence for a year, the reel numbers are specially identified in the Shelf List.
- Each incoming letter or petition, and related documents, were attached to a docket sheet bearing the file number, a file title and notes regarding action taken. (In early years, the address panel of a letter was often used in lieu of a docket sheet.) Microfilming practice has varied, such that the docket sheet was at some periods filmed before the file contents and at other periods, after. Practice was consistent within each reel, making the docket sheet a reliable indicator of the begining and end of specific files. Please note that the documents within a file may not exhibit any particular chronological or other order, although some will exhibit numbers and letters corresponding to a list prepared by the Provincial Secretary or some other official involved with a case. To the extent that a pin or ribbon has preserved an order of documents within a file, that order has been respected in the microfilming.

Specific guidelines for searches:

- A To search for information about an individual, institution or corporate body:
  - 1 Consult the Index for the appropriate year(s), under all known spellings of the surname, or likely variations. Names of associations may be filed under a key word -- such as Sons of Temperance or the London & Quebec Telegraph Company under T -- rather than by the first word. If the individual held any public office, consult the heading for it also. Note the docket or file numbers given there.
    - * (During the 1840s, entries were made in the style 32/15784 to indentify both register page and file number.)
  - Consult the Register corresponding to the year in question and locate the entry corresponding to that file number. Information recorded under the headings of Remarks or Action and Filed With will indicate whether the Provincial Secretary retained the file, in place or brought forward, or referred it to another office.
  - Provided that the file was not identified as having been forwarded elsewhere nor filed with items of later date, consult the Shelf List to identify the volume in which the file should be located and the microfilm reel on which that volume will appear. Be cautious in correlating both year and file number, since the file sequences began anew at certain points (usually each January).

- * Files which were brought forward with correspondence of later date can be traced by repeating step 2. For example, "with 4803 of 57" in the Remarks for an item of 1856 would lead to the 1857 Register entry for file 4803. The file may be there, or both it and 4803 of 1857 may be noted as having been brought forward with yet another file number. Step 2 must be repeated until the Remarks indicate where the files came to rest.
- Consult the relevant microfilm by retrieving the appropriate reel from the Self Service collection in the Reading Room or requesting it on loan. Requests for photocopies should not be submitted until the file has been located and its existence been confirmed. Remember: an entry in the Register is no guarantee that the file will be found in place.
- B To search for information about an official or his activities
  - 1 Consult biographical dictionaries, almanacs or works such as J. O. Coté's Political Appointments and Elections in the Province of Canada (Ottawa, 1867) to confirm names, titles, and dates in office.
  - 2 Consult the Index for the appropriate year(s), under all known spellings of the official's surname, or likely variations, and under the appropriate office title. Note any docket or file numbers given there.
  - Consult the Register corresponding to the year in question and locate the entry corresponding to the file number(s). Information recorded under the headings of Remarks or Action and Filed With will indicate whether the Provincial Secretary retained the file, in place or brought forward, or referred it to another office.
  - 4 Provided that the file was not identified as having been forwarded elsewhere nor filed with items of later date, consult the Shelf List to identify the volume in which the file should be located and the microfilm reel on which that volume will appear. Be cautious in correlating both year and file number, since the file sequences began anew at certain points (usually each January).
    - * Files which were brought forward with correspondence of later date can be traced by repeating step 3.
  - Consult the relevant microfilm by retrieving the appropriate reel from the Self Service collection in the Reading Room or requesting it on loan. Requests for photocopies should not be submitted until the file has been located and its existence been confirmed. Remember that an entry in the Register is no guarantee that the file will be found in place.

- C To search for information about an event or subject
  - 1 Consult published works to determine the names and titles of individuals and officials involved in the matter, and the time frame to be covered in the investigation.
  - Consult the Index under appropriate terms for an abstract subject and under the titles of officials or names of specific individuals or institutions known or suspected to have been involved (such as the Chief Emigrant Agent for immigration or McGill College for education) and note the docket or file numbers given there.
  - Consult the Register corresponding to the year in question and locate the entry corresponding to that file number. Information recorded under the headings of Remarks or Action and Filed With will indicate whether the Provincial Secretary retained the file, in place or brought forward, or referred it to another office.
  - 4 Provided that the file was not identified as having been forwarded elsewhere nor filed with items of later date, consult the Shelf List to identify the volume in which the file should be located and the microfilm reel on which that volume will appear. Be cautious in correlating both year and file number, since the file sequences began anew at certain points (usually each January).
    - * Files which were brought forward with correspondence of later date can be traced by repeating step 3.
  - Consult the relevant microfilm by retrieving the appropriate reel from the Self Service collection in the Reading Room or requesting it on loan. Requests for photocopies should not be submitted until the file has been located and its existence been confirmed. Remember that an entry in the Register is no guarantee that the file will be found in place.

C 2 PROVINCIAL SECRETARY, Canada West: Letterbooks, 1839-1867

Volumes 1-57

2.4 m

Finding Aid 996.

Outgoing correspondence from the Provincial Secretary's Office was recorded in letterbooks, 1839-1867. The series complements the incoming correspondence found in the Numbered Files (series RG 5, C 1). The drafts found in series C 3 may be compared with the final text of the outgoing correspondence as recorded in the letterbooks.

FINDING AIDS

A set of indexes to the letterbooks serves as a means of access. The volumes have been shelved in the Reference Room as Finding Aid # 996. The index gives the number of the page on which the reply will be located; the file number of the incoming letter is generally noted in the margin, facilitating reference back to that series. Likewise, the date of the reply is frequently noted in the registers of incoming correspondence (see RG 5, C 1).

The SHELF LIST which follows provides a detailed list of the volumes with a correlation of the microfilm reels on which they appear. The complete series has been microfilmed.

RESEARCHERS MUST USE THE MICROFILM

PHOTO-COPIES

Since the series has been withdrawn from circulation for conservation purposes, xerox copies can NOT be made from the originals. Reader-printer copies can be made from the microfilm, at the same charge as for xerox. When special copies are required for publication or exhibition, photographs can be made from the originals, at the standard charge for such copies. Reader-printer copies can be certified for legal purposes.

When ordering copies, please use the style of citation given below to identify the volume and page(s) desired.

CITATIONS The recommended form of Citations is as follows:

first RG 5, C 2, Provincial Secretary's Letterbook, Canada West,. vol. 15, page 663; on reel C-13143.

subsequently RG 5, C 2, vol. 7, pages 419-420; on reel C-13141.

RG 5 C 1

CANADA WEST: Provincial Secretary's Office, Numbered Correspondence Files

Originals, 1821-1867. 49 metres.

At the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1841, the division of responsibilities between the offices of Civil Secretary and of Provincial Secretary and Registrar was clarified, confirming an evolutionary trend. Where the Civil Secretary had been the principal channel of communication for the government before the Union, after 1841 the Provincial Secretary's office was the focus. This evolution in the bureaucracy paralleled and reflected the development of responsible government in the political arena.

While the office of Civil Secretary to the Governor was unified after 1841, that of the Provincial Secretary and Registrar continued a separation based on geography. The old territory of Lower Canada was now termed Canada East and the old Upper Canada, Canada West. Parallel record-keeping systems were established by the Provincial Secretaries, using a numbered file registry system.

Microfilming of the Registers and Indexes within this series was completed in 1975. The microfilming of the files begun in 1977 was suspended in 1980 pending resolution of problems with misplaced files, then resumed in 1992.

Researchers must use the microfilm, when available. The complete series is being withdrawn from circulation as a protective conservation measure. Photocopying is permitted only from the microfilm. Certification of copies for legal purposes can be provided at the National Archives of Canada. When requesting photocopies, researchers should use the short form of citation illustrated below.

Letters, petitions, reports, returns and other documents received in the office of the Provincial Secretary and Registrar for Canada East between 1841 and 1867 were entered in a numbered registry system. Certain files antedating 1841 brought forward for reference purposes were also entered in the registry system. Not all documents which were entered in the registry system have survived in their expected locations. Many files were brought forward and preserved with related files of later date. As the main channel of correspondence for the government, the Provincial Secretary redirected many documents to the appropriate offices for action, where the files were incorporated into other registry systems.

A variety of incoming items of 1841-1867 were not numbered and have come to form the series C 4, together with what appear to be reference copies of documents of earlier and later date.

The texts of replies to this inward correspondence (C 1) were recorded in the letterbooks forming the series C 2. While some drafts of those replies may be found attached to the incoming items, a substantial proportion of the drafts were segregated and filed as the series C 3.

Files referred by the Provincial Secretary to other offices may be traced in certain record groups, notably

RG 1, L 3 - petitions referred to the Land Committee of the Executive Council; RG 7, G 20 - correspondence received by or referred to the Civil Secretary;

RG 1, E 6 and RG 11 - files accumulated by the Board of Railway Commissioners and the Board of Works;

RG 17 - files relating to immigration and to statistics, referred to the Board of Agriculture

RG 19 - files referred to the Inspector General, the Receiver General or the Minister of Finance.

Certain other files may now be in the custody of provincial archives, inasmuch as the Commissioner of Crown Lands and certain other offices became provincial responsibilities at Confederation and the records were transferred with the officials.

In his capacity as Registrar, the Provincial Secretary was responsible for retaining a copy of all documents issued over the Great Seal of the province and of documents issued elsewhere which gave jurisdiction to provincial officials (such as the Royal Commission to a Governor). Records specific to the Registrar's functions, including registers and entrybooks recording the texts of documents, were inherited by his successor at Confederation and may now be found with the Registrar General's records in RG 68.

The arrangement of the records follows the original numerical sequence assigned by the Provincial Secretary. This sequence reflected the chronological order of receipt. It has been preserved or reconstructed wherever possible. Many blocks of files on special subjects, segregated in the past and described in B series of RG 4, have been reintegrated into the numbered correspondence (series C 1).

In volumes 1-127 the files were paginated to preserve the original sequence of their contents, and their integrity, since smaller items might go astray after the pins, ribbons and other fasteners were removed to facilitate filming. The notices identifying files "brought forward" or "not found" at the time of filming were not paginated. Frame counters were used in filming of subsequent volumes.

Abbreviations were used extensively by the Provincial Secretary and his colleagues. A table identifying the most common of them is available (following this inventory entry) as an interpretive aid to researchers when consulting the Indexes and Registers within this series. The citations below illustrate the recommended use of the abbreviation PSO/CE to identify file numbers. It should also be noted that the term file is used in preference to docket, although both are correct.

Dans les volumes 1 à 127, les dossiers ont été paginés afin de conserver la séquence originale de leur contenu ainsi que leur intégrité, et pour eviter que des petits papers ne s'égarent, une fois les rubans et autres attaches retirés pour faciliter le microfilmage. Les notices qui identifient les dossiers «rappelés» et «introuvables» au moment du microfilmage n'étaient pas paginées. Des compteurs d'images ont été utilisés pour le microfilmages des volumes subséquents.

Le Secrétaire provincial et ses collègues utilisaient de nomreuses abréviations. Un tableau identifiant les abréviations les plus communes (disponible avec la notice d'inventaire et répertoire numérique pour la série C 1) peut servir à titre d'outil d'interprétation pour les chercheurs qui consultent les index et les registres (volumes 746 à 802) de cette série. Les citations données plus bas illustrent l'utilisation recommandée de l'abréviation PSO/CW pour identifier les numéros de dossiers.

La présentation des références des dossiers devrait être celle utilisée dans les exemples ci-dessous. Dans les demandes de photocopies, il faut au moins utiliser la forme abrégée des références (prière de ne pas inventer d'abréviations). La première mention doit toujours comporter le titre complet de la série, mais les mentions subséquents peuvent s'abréger comme suit (voir les exemples 3 à 9). Dans les citations abrégées, les chercheurs peuvent employer le numéro et la date du dossier ou les numéros des pages.

Pour distinguer un dossier, il est indispensable d'inclure le numéro et l'année. Selon la coutume, une référence telle que «PSO/CW 3519 de 1857» désigne un dossier, c'est-à-dire un dossier au complet, y compris tout document justificatif. Les pages d'un dossier devraient être indiquées comme dans les exemples 3 à 5 ci-dessous.

Dans les volumes 1 à 127, chaque page porte un numéro. Un compteur d'images a servi au microfilmage des volumes 128 à 880. Il faut peut préciser le numéro de l'image pour trouver telle ou telle page. Mentionner le numéro de volume lorsque les numéros d'image prennent fin avec la volume ou l'année et non avec la bobine de microfilm.

Dans certains cas, tous les dossiers concernent un sujèt out un événement ont été classés avec le dossier principal. Ainsi, avec le dossier numéro 570 de 1850 on trouve quelques dossiers connexes. Il faut prendre soin d'indiquer également le numéro du dossier principal (voir l'exemple numéro 5).

Citations should include the essential elements demonstrated in the examples below. The first citation should always provide the full series title, but subsequent citations may be shortened as illustrated here, using either file numbers or page/frame numbers. The short form is the minimum acceptable identification when requesting photocopies.

Both file number and year must be cited to ensure accurate identification. The file number is used to identify the file as a whole. To specify documents within a file, the appropriate page or frame number should be cited. A description of the document may be included for clarity.

Pages were numbered in volumes 1-127; thereafter, a frame-counter was used. When the frame numbering ends with a volume or year, rather than a reel, citations should note file and/or volume numbers to ensure accurate identification of documents.

In some cases, all documents concerning a subject or event have been brought together with the first or principal file. Thus, with file 570 of 1850 there are several associated files. The location of associated files should be specified as in example # 5.

RG 5, C 1

CANADA-OUEST: Secrétariat provincial, correspondance reçue, constituée en dossiers

Originaux, 1821-1867. 49 mètres.

Au moment de la réunion du Haut-Canada et du Bas-Canada, en 1841, le partage des responsabilités entre le bureau du Secrétaire civil et celui du Secrétaire et Registraire provincial fut clarifié pour tenir compte de l'évolution dans ce domaine. En effet, jusqu'à l'époque de cette réunion, le bureau du Secrétaire civil était le principal organe de communication pour le gouvernement, mais après 1841, ce fut le bureau du Secrétaire provincial. Cette évolution mena aussi à la mise en place du gouvernement responsable.

Le bureau du Secrétaire civil auprès du Gouverneur fut unifié après 1841, mais celui du Secrétaire et Registraire provincial continua d'être divisé du point de vue géographique. L'ancien territoire du Bas-Canada était dorénavant désigné sous le nom de Canada-est, alors que celui du Haut-Canada était appelé Canada-ouest. Les Secretaires provinciaux établirent des systèmes d'archivage parallèles comportant un enregistrement numérique des dossiers.

Le microfilmage des registres et index pour cette série de documents a pris fin en 1975. Quant au microfilmage des dossiers commencé en 1977, il a été interrompu en 1980 pour permettre de remédier au classement erroné de dossiers, puis il a repris en 1992.

Les chercheurs doivent utiliser les microfilms lorsqu'il en existe. Toute cette série de documents est en train d'être retirer de la circulation à titre de mesure pro-tectrice de conservation. Il est permis de reproduire (à l'aide d'un lecteur-reproducteur) à partir du microfilm seulement. Les Archives nationales du Canada peuvent homologuer les copies à des fins juridiques. Pour commander des photocopies, les chercheurs utilisent la forme abrégés des références (voir ci-dessous).

Les lettres, pétitions, rapports, relevés et autres documents reçus au Secrétariat provincial et au bureau du Registraire pour le Canada-est entre 1841 et 1867 ont été inscrits dans un système de registre numéroté. Certains dossiers datant d'avant 1841, mais qui avaient été rappelés à des fins de référence, ont également été inscrits dans le système de registre. Il arrive aussi que les dossiers inscrits dans les registres se retrouvent ailleurs. Ainsi, de nombreux dossiers ont été rappelés et conservés avec des dossiers connexes d'une date ultérieure. En tant que principal organisme de correspondance pour le gouvernement, le Secrétariat provincial réexpédiait de nombreux documents aux bureaux concernés afin que ceux-ci puissent prendre les mesures nécessaires; les dossiers étaient alors incorporés à d'autres systèmes d'enregistrement.

Un certain nombre de documents reçus datant des années 1841 à 1867 n'ont pas été numérotés; ce sont ceux qui composent la série C 4, avec ce qui semble être des copies de référence de documents qui datent d'avant ou après ces années.

Les textes des réponses à cette correspondance reçue (série C 1) sont inscrits dans les livres de copies de lettres qui composent la série C 2. Bien que certaines ébauches de réponses peuvent être trouvées avec les lettres reçues, une partie considérable des ébauches ont été séparées et composent la série C 3.

Les dossiers transmis par le Secrétariat provincial à d'autres bureaux peuvent être retrouvés dans certains fonds, notamment :

RG 1, L 3 - pétitions soumises au Comité foncier du Conseil exécutif;

RG 7, G 20 - correspondance reçue par le secrétaire civil ou qui lui a été référée;

RG 1, E 6 et RG 11 - dossiers accumulés par la Commission des chemins de fer et la Commission des travaux publics;

RG 17 - dossiers ayant trait à l'immigration et aux statistiques, référés à la Commission de l'Agriculture;

RG 19 - dossiers transmis à l'Inspecteur général, au Receveur général ou au Ministre des finances.

Il est possible que certains autres dossiers soient présentement sous la garde d'archives provinciales, vu que le bureau du Commissaire des terres de la Couronne et d'autres bureaux sont devenus de compétence provinciale au moment de la Confédération et que les archives ont alors été transférés auprès des responsables.

À titre de Registraire, le Secrétaire provincial avait la responsabilité de conserver une copie de tous les documents émis portant le grand sceau de la province et des documents émis ailleurs mais qui accordaient des compétences à des responsables provinciaux (comme la Commission royale nommant un gouverneur). Les documents particuliers à la fonction de registraire, y compris les registres et les livres de copies de lettres où figuraient les textes des documents, ont été légués au successeur du Registraire au moment de la Confédération, et peuvent maintenant être trouvés dans les archives du Registraire général dans RG 68.

L'ordre des documents suit la séquence numérique originale attribuée par le Secrétariat provincial. Cette séquence reflète l'ordre chronologique de réception. Elle a été conservée ou reconstituée lorsque cela a été possible. De nombreux blocs de dossiers portant sur des sujets particuliers, autrefois séparés et classés dans les séries B de RG 4, ont été réintégrés dans la correspondance numérotée (série C 1).
